You don’t need to be the biggest football fan in the world to have heard of FIFA (Fédération Internationale de Football Association), the governing body for football. And, the video game series bearing the organisation’s name is one of the most successful ever. The lure of this football series is that official licensing gives your child the opportunity to play games in the role of their favourite players. They can either work through a story mode version of the game or play online in competitions against other players. The game, released annually by Electronic Arts under the EA Sports label, is available for a range of consoles, and there are also mobile versions available for smartphones and tablets. The most recent version is FIFA 18, but FIFA 19 is due for release later in the year.

FAKE EMAILS, SCAMS AND COPYCAT WEBSITES
Your child may receive an email or see a message on social media or in forums which appear to be a genuine FIFA promotion. However, this is unusual and there is an expectation that it will be far better than the previous one, so the pressure to upgrade and buy the new version is likely to be immense.

IN-GAME CHAT
While the FIFA video game is suitable for children of all ages as it does not include any inappropriate content, there is the issue of in-game chat. Your child can play with other people online and chat with them using headsets. As this is largely unregulated, it could mean that your child is exposed to language or conversations that you deem unsuitable.
